Dear Flo and Imogen,

So there I was, languishing in my dungeon home, when an email popped up from Mrs Blissett containing none other than STITCH GIRL: THE COMIC. Well, I don't need to tell you (or maybe I do, as I'm about to) that it made my day! As a huge fan of comedy, adventure and comics (especially ones inspired by my books), I loved reading the tale of Stitch Girl and her trap-door trials. I especially enjoyed the mysterious monstrous cat, who showed Stitch Girl a way to escape. Meeting Stitch Head's pet dog was also a treat, and I was chuffed to bits that Stitch Girl and Stitch Head got to have an almost-life outside the castle. Congratulations!

In related news, I'm delighted that you survived your visit to the shadowy and occasionally foul-smelling world of Castle Grotteskew. I hope you didn't get into too much trouble and escaped with your limbs intact.

Right, I'm off to write a book. Or possibly have a sandwich. May your many readings excite your brain and explode your imaginings. Enjoy your adventures in Yesteryear, and have yourselves a Dingle Dangle!

Cheers,
